(a) A rare instance of near "zugzwang" after just three moves. Black has virtually no other choice to ensure the development of his QB before playing ...P-K3.

(b) In effect, White has brought his "reserve" QN over to the king side, where it guards squares covered by the enemy bishop, without loss of time.

(c) Part of a general plan to immobilize Black's king side, using his QB as a convenient target, while preparing to castle long.

(d) Unmentioned in Boleslavsky's "Caro-Kann bis Sizilianisch", Panov's "Kurs debyutov", Chess Digest's "Caro-Kann Defence" and Levy's "How To Play the Opening in Chess", among others, and merely noted by MCO-10 (but not in MCO-11!).

(e) Necessary to prevent 9 N-K5.

(f) Taking advantage of the lull in the action—and his bind on the position—to complete his formidable build-up.

(g) Superior, though not good enough to equalize, is 12...Q-B2 13 0-0-0 0-0-0 14 N-K5, as in Najdorf—Oliveira, Sao Paulo, 1947 (MCO-10, pg. 133, note "e").

(h) This attempt at liberation by removing White's oppressive QP costs valuable time and, in any case, only reacts in favor of the better developed party when files open up for the heavy pieces.

(i) Black castled into it, and now here comes Tal! Everything from this point on looks more or less forced, e.g., if 15...Q-N3, then 16 PxKP PxKP 17 N-K5 NxN 18 PxN, followed by Q-N6 and BxP.

(j) The decisive breakthrough sacrifice.

(k) More stubborn resistance is possible with 17...B-B1, but Black will be unable to stave off defeat in the end.

(l) Or 18...K-N2 19 NxP! KxN 20 Q-N6ch K-B1 21 N-N5, with mate on the way.

KORCHNOI WINS ONE, TAKES A REST

With five games yet to play in the final candidates' series under way in Moscow, beleaguered Viktor Korchnoi scored his first victory in 19 tries against 23-year-old Anatoly Karpov, who still leads the match by 3-1.

Most likely to gather strength following his 79-move win, Korchnoi exercised his option to postpone the 20th contest "on account of illness", as allowed by the rules.

For the record, here is the game recorded in streamlined coordinate chess notation (files lettered "a" to "h", ranks numbered "1" to "8", always counting from White's lower left corner regardless of whose turn to move; pawn captures designated by file letters only).
