

Open Air Chess Tourney Slated For South Park

An open air chess tournament, which will draw many of the city's leading players, will be staged at South Park Sunday afternoon, May 22nd. This major interracial event is sponsored by the Cosmopolitan Chess Club.

Players will be at their chessboards ready for opening moves at 1:00 p.m., and throughout the afternoon a new round of play will be timed to commence every hour. Chess experts will be on hand to adjudicate unfinished games in each round, and at the end a best-seller chess book will be awarded the winner.

Entry fees of $1.00 from each player will go into a fund to buy large, uniform chess sets for the Cosmo Club, which meets every Wednesday evening at Central Playground and has lacked permanent equipment such as other clubs have. The tournament is open to the public, and club officers advise entrants to bring their own boards and sets and register early before play starts.
