SAN JOSE WINS NATIONAL INTERCOLLEGIATE TEAM CHAMPIONSHIP

The team from California State College at San Jose scored an impressive victory during the 1964-65 winter holidays when it won out over 20 other college teams in the first national team championship to be held in California. San Jose State tied with Texas and Massachusetts Institute of Technology with match scores of 6-1, and won on total points, 22 to 20 and 16½. The San Jose players were Erik Osbun (captain), Jim Iwashita, Ray Shutt, Leonard Hill, and Peter Kelemen. Out of 7 matches, San Jose lost only one, to the strong University of Texas team. Texas lost only to M. I. T. and the latter lost to San Jose. In fourth place was Cornell. Stanford led six teams tied for fifth with 4-3 match scores, its 18 game points edging out California State at Long Beach (17) and California State at Los Angeles (16½). The tournament was held at Los Angeles State and was directed by Gordon S. Barrett. Organizer and prime mover of the event was Prof. Jose Marin of Long Beach State (formerly of L. A. State).

SAN JOSE STATE TAKES NATIONAL TEAM TITLE AT LOS ANGELES

California State College at San Jose won the 1964-65 team championship of the Intercollegiate Chess League of America by outscoring the University of Texas and Massachusetts Institute of Technology teams on total points after the three teams tied in match wins 6-1. It was quite an upset for San Jose, as Texas, the pre-tournament favorite, had defeated San Jose and Cornell and appeared to be "in" until M. I. T. scored a surprise win in the sixth round. San Jose had a great total score of 19 wins, 6 draws, and only 5 losses.

There were 94 players in the 21 teams which participated. Individual high scoring prizes went to: Board One, Ralph Tobler (Illinois Institute of Technology); Board Two, Don Sutherland (California); Board Three, Ben Carter (Stanford); Board Four, Angel Berrios (Puerto Rico); Alternate, William Binney (Penn. State). Board Three and Alternate prizes were really won by Ray Schutt and Peter Kelemen of San Jose, but being on the championship team they were not eligible for another prize.

ADDISON WINS SANTA MONICA OPEN

Bill Addison scored a perfect six-for-six in the December Santa Monica Open and took the first prize money of $150. It was an easy romp for Addison over a strong field, as he established his one-point margin of victory as early as the fourth round.

Norman Lessing and Ed Kennedy tied for second, 5-1, and each received $62.50. Lessing, the highest-scoring club member, won the trophy emblematic of the club championship. Prizes were also awarded for Classes A, B, C and unrated. Herbert T. Abel was tournament director.

TROY WINS BERNARD OAK MEMORIAL OPEN

Allan Troy scored a fine win in the annual Bernard Oak Memorial Open, held at the City Terrace club during October and November, 1964. Troy won five games and drew two, with Ted Jester and Ben Kakimi. It was a home-coming for Troy, who was the energetic Southern California Chess League president until his business took him to Ventura as a base, with trips to New York, Washington, etc. during the year. The tournament is an annual tribute to the late president of City Terrace, and was directed by Gordon S. Barrett.

HANKEN WINS MONTEREY PARK BI-CLUB INVITATIONAL

Jerry Hanken added another title to his collection in late 1964 when he won the Bi-Club tournament held at Monterey Park. Hanken's score of 6-1 edged out Al Larsen by half a point.

Hanken had problems after losing his first-round game to R. Kotz, and had to win six straight games, including a win over runner-up Larsen in the sixth round, to have a chance. Then came the last round. As Hanken defeated M. Sarley, Larsen was only able to draw with M. Carr and so finished in second place.

GAME OF THE MONTH

Bill Addison had won two games with the King's Gambit in the Steiner Chess Club Championship -- the premier club tournament of the year in California -- where he was paired with Irving Rivise. Having white again, he decided to continue with the Gambit -- he "could afford to lose one game" in the tournament. Rivise played Fischer's analysis for Black -- and apparently some analysis of his own. At the diagrammed position White was at the crossroads -- and went even further a-gambitting. But Black's preponderance of pawns on the Kingside and counter-threats were too much. (Sequel: Addison could afford to "lose one game" -- he won the tournament handily.)

BOOK REVIEW

First Piatigorsky Cup, Edited by Isaac Kashdan, annotated by Samuel Reshevsky and the 7 other grandmasters. Published by the Ward Ritchie Press, Los Angeles. Available from the Lane Book Company, Menlo Park. Cloth bound, 204 pages. 56 games, 89 diagrams, 15 photographs. $6.95.

The book of the 1963 tournament of grandmasters in Los Angeles is a handsomely produced tribute to the eight gentlemen (we use the word advisedly) who participated and to Jacqueline and Gregor Piatigorsky, who organized and financed the event. There is a fine introduction by grandmaster Kashdan, who directed the tournament, and complete cross-tables, indexes, and round-by-round scores. At the price it is a bargain. It is a book which will occupy a permanent position on a chessplayer's book shelf.

The contestants were 8: Tigran Petrosian (world champion) and Paul Keres of Russia; Sammy Reshevsky and Pal Benko of the U. S.; Miguel Najdorf and Oscar Panno of Argentina; Svetozar Gligoric of Yugoslavia; and Fridrik Olafsson of Iceland. It was the first time since Pasadena, 1932, that a reigning world champion had appeared at a tournament in the U. S. and it was unprecedented that modern-day Russians were permitted to go so far from home unchaperoned. It was a splendid representation of international chess at the grandmaster level, and some of the games will go down in history. The only regret was that our champion, young Bobby Fischer of Brooklyn, chose not to participate. Fischer was invited, but for reasons of his own (probably financial), he declined.

The annotations are by Sammy Reshevsky except for 7 games considered best by each of the other players. Every game is annotated and Reshevsky's notes are full, but unfortunately he is not a writer. The first 3 games commence "Petrosian resorted to his favorite Caro-Kann Defense," "Panno resorted to the Benoni Defense," and "Olafsson resorted to an older form of the Sicilian Defense." A standard remark is "The opening was very interesting" or "The position is still interesting." We may be nit-picking, but we like more varied fare. We prefer "A good move and very easy, because every time you want to utilize a better position, you must open the position even if you have to sacrifice" (Najdorf) and "In several earlier games of the tournament 8... P-QN3 was played. My intention was to improve on black's defense in a variation which I chose in the 7th match game against Geller in 1962" (Keres). Annotating a chess game is a difficult art. The annotator should possess a trenchant literary style plus the analytical authority of a great master and student of the game. (Do we appear to be calling for a collaboration between Shakespeare and Morphy?) Reshevsky is a great master, but he is no Shakespeare.
