Hansen Surprizes Davies

By MARTIN MORRISON and ELWIN MEYERS

En Passant Editors

In a recent tournament held from January to March at the UC Davis Chess Club, S. von Oettingen took first place with a score of 5-1, but Richard Hansen, Oakland, drew most of the attention. His rating was so low compared to the other players in section A of the tournament (1761, although five players were over 2000!) that the club asked him to play in section B. Mr. Hansen, however, insisted on playing in section A, and his score of 5-1 placed him second in the tournament, since he was nosed out on tie-breaking points by Mr. von Oettingen. Moreover, Mr. Hansen, in addition to his second place finish, won prizes for the biggest rating gain, highest upset victory, and the best sacrificial combination! M. El Sayed finished third with 4½-1½. Section B was won by G. Hutchinson, with a score of 3½-1½.

A trophy will be awarded to the top team.

ARTICLE: THE EAST BAY CHESS ASSOCIATION RATING SYSTEM
By MARTIN MORRISON
En Passant Editor

Many people still do not completely understand the rating system used to determine their EBCA chess ratings. The system actually is identical to that used for USCF and DFNC ratings, so a knowledge of the EBCA system will be transferable to those other systems.

The best way to look at the system is to realize that sixteen points are at stake in every game in which the two players are of equal strength. If the players are not of equal strength, adjustments for this fact have to be made. The actual process of determining the ratings is somewhat complicated, so I shall put all the information needed in the following for convenience' sake.

Difference in ratings between the two players	Amount at stake in the game if:			The game is drawn
	#1. Higher-rated player wins	#2. Lower-rated player wins	#3.
0-12	16	16		0
13-37	15	17		1
38-62	14	18		2
63-87	13	19		3
88-112	12	20		4
113-137	11	21		5
138-162	10	22		6
163-187	9	23		7
188-212	8	24		8
213-237	7	25		9
238-262	6	26		10
263-287	5	27		11
288-312	4	28		12
313-337	3	29		13
338-362	2	30		14
363 and above	1	31		15

If one uses this table, finding ratings should be relatively easy. The general theory of the system is that the greater the difference in rating between the players, the less points the higher-rated player obtains for a win, the more the lower-rated player obtains for a win. Let us take hypothetical examples.

Example 1. Player A is 1650, player B is 1750. Player B wins. First, determine the difference in rating between the players. In this case it is 100 points. The higher-rated player won, so look under column #1. The amount of points at stake on the game under these circumstances is listed as 12. THE FIGURE GIVEN IN THE TABLE IS ALWAYS ADDED TO THE WINNER'S RATING AND SUBTRACTED FROM THE LOSER'S RATING (EXCEPT IN THE CASE OF A DRAW). In this case, player A would have a new rating of 1650-12, or 1638; player B would have 1750+12, or 1762.

Example 2. Player A is 1650; player B is 1750. Player A wins. Once again the difference in rating is 100 points. Since in this case the lower-rated player won, look under column #2 opposite 88-112 points. The figure is 20. So 20 points are added to the winner's rating and 20 points are subtracted from the loser's rating. Player A would then have: 1650+20, or 1670. Player B would have 1750-20, or 1730.

Example 3. Player A (1650) draws with player B (1750). Difference in ratings: 100 points. Under the draw column (#3)

the figure is 4. Player A's new rating is 1800/4, or 1804. Player B's new rating is 1000-4, or 1896. IN THE CASE OF A DRAW THE FIGURE IN COLUMN#3 IS ADDED TO THE RATING OF THE LOWER-RATED PLAYER AND SUBTRACTED FROM THE RATING OF THE HIGHER-RATED PLAYER.

Just for practice, you might compute the final ratings for players A, B, and C, who played the following games:

- Player A is rated 1821.
- Player B is rated 1753.
- Player C is rated 1701.

- 1) Player A defeats player C.
- 2) Player B defeats player A.
- 3) Player C draws with player B.
- 4) Player A draws with player B.

What are the final ratings? REMEMBER TO ADJUST THE RATINGS GAME BY GAME.

SOLUTION:

After Game 1: A has 1621/19, or 1640; B has 1753 (no change); C has 1801-19, or 1882.

After Game 2: A has 1640-11, or 1629; B has 1753/11, or 1764; C has 1682 (no change).

After Game 3: A has 1629 (no change); B has 1764-3, or 1761; C has 1682/3, or 1685.

After Game 4: A has 1629/5, or 1634; B has 1761-5, or 1756; C has 1685 (no change).

The final ratings are, then: player A, 1634; player B, 1756; player C, 1685.

EAST BAY CHESS ASSOCIATION RATINGS
 Coordinated by MARTIN MORRISON and ELWIN MEYERS
En Passant Editors

EBCA ratings are computed by and supplied through each player's own chess club on the basis of games played between EBCA members and thus subsume club ratings. The ratings are computed on the USCF and DFNC standard of sixteen points, plus or minus four per centum of the difference in rating points between the players.

If your rating does not seem correct or is not listed, see your club rater. The club raters are: John Small, Berkeley YMCA Chess Club (B); J....., Concord Chess Club (C); Jerry Friedman, Hayward Chess Club (H); Patrick Barry, Livermore Chess Club (L); Roy McCollough and Raymond Ng, Oakland Chess Club (O); Peter Brown, Jr., Richmond Chess Club (R); and Saleh Mujahed, Walnut Creek Chess Club (W).

The following is the monthly listing of members' EBCA ratings; each member's name is followed by his club affiliations and then his EBCA rating.

W mates in 2.	W mates in 2.	W mates in 2.

In many two-movers the key move, some of Black's defenses, and the ensuing mating moves all play a part in the theme that is being illustrated. In other problems the interest may lie chiefly in only two of these moves. The key move and Black's defenses may make up the thematic content of the problem, the mating moves in themselves being uninteresting, or a problem may be composed to show certain Black manoeuvres and the resulting mates, the composer providing the best key that he can after the position is otherwise complete. Again the chief feature of a composition may lie in just one of these moves. Some problems are composed to show striking key moves, otherse, to illustrate strategic Black defenses. Likewise, there are two-movers composed primarily for Whites mating moves." Thus Kenneth S. Howard in The Enjoyment of Chess Problems (Dover Publications, New York, Third Revised Edition, c. 1961) begins his chapter on "The Mating Move." Try your skill on the above problems exemplifying "mating moves in the main-plays...of particular interest because they form an essential part of a striking theme."

Sorry for the vacation last month. I hope the columns will be regular from here on. I thought you might like to see the game which won for Richard Hansen, of Oakland, the prize for best sacrifice combination (brilliancy) at the Tenth David Rated Tournament, held from January through March of this month. I'm afraid that the game is in algebraic notation, but, then, we all should know how to read both algebraic and descriptive notation, shouldn't we?

Mir Malik Sultan Kahn (1905-1966) was the Hindu Slave of an Indian Maharajah. He was brought to Europe in the early 1930's, where he competed successfully against several grandmasters. He later returned to India, whence his death was recently reported. I am indebted to Mr. Frank W. Prall, 122 Underwood, Hot Springs, Arkansas and Mr. Robert Lauzon, Pittsford, New York 14534 for bringing this player to my attention. Mr. Lauzon has published some of Kahn's games in his chess magazine "Nost-algia."
