Doris Gould learned chess eight years ago from a neighbor and some books. At that time she began postal chess, then joined the CCLA a year later. She has participated in a number of events, one of which was the finals of the 1965 Women's Championship Tournament.

For the past year, Doris has been playing in the Downey Chess Club in Downey, California. In her first tournament last spring, she won the second place trophy in the unrated and below 1600 section. Doris "will teach chess to anyone who shows the slightest interest."

In addition to being a housewife, Doris is a part-time secretary and bookkeeper. She tutors Latin and algebra and pursues her interests of music and oil painting.
