My dear Jacqueline:

Mon. June 13

Received your most welcome letter this morning. We all knew you had arrived safely as Grische telephoned for you were not in your rooms so he left a message. What a thrill the flight must have been for Eugene! I try - my mind to follow your progress and now the best is yet to come. I shall be eternally grateful to you for all you make possible, not only for Eugene, but the rest of us as well! Grische was here for dinner Friday and I can tell you he misses you very much. I had quite a long talk with him and when you return, we shall have much to discuss. The way I see things, I feel you both need each other. Nothing must ever destroy what you have, and can still have. With your thinking mind I am sure you will agree with me. True, there is much to overcome on both sides, but the foundation for something lasting and wonderful is there, only some where along the line, a most unfortunate disturbance. Forgive me Jacqueline for being frank, but in as much as I love both of you and want to be your friend about all else. I feel impelled to write what is in my heart. You are too wonderful a person from every standpoint, to be taken in with that which is obviously insincere and self-motivated. Need I say more? You know what I mean! Grin just left to pick up Grische & Lucas. He will take them to the recording studio and I hope will bring Grische back for dinner. I try to keep in touch with him as much as possible and hope he feels free to come here as we all enjoy him so much. How is your dear mother? Please give her my love. My dearest to you, Septa, Ira & Eugene. In another week when we here will be on their way - I dread the thought but we cannot stop progress. Again my gratitude and my love. Selma
