notes on

George Koltanowski

An International Chess Master, George Koltanowski had an impressive record of victories behind him even before leaving his native Belgium to live in America. A beginner at age 14, he soon mastered the game. At seventeen, he was the national champion of Belgium. He won the World Blindfold Championship at Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1937, and since that time has reasserted his mastery at the blindfold game.

His column has appeared regularly in The Chronicle since May 1947, and his name has become synonymous with good chess among countless Chronicle families in Northern California
