

REGINALD OWEN, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Star

Plays a pretty fair game. He and Frank Morgan play on a tiny pocket chessboard between scenes in pictures. Owen learned the game in England as a boy in order to play with an uncle. He says that its continual employment of forethought sharpens the wits and fascinates him.

MAUREEN O'SULLIVAN
Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Star

Another apt pupil who also became interested by watching the experts play! She has been playing for about a year and a half.

An interesting innovation in chess competi-