

California. The annual feud between North and South was settled this year by a resounding 17-5 win by the former. A second match was played to accommodate the excess of northern players and they won again, this time by 10-9. Herman Steiner won his games on first board in both matches.

James Cross made a fine recovery to win his match against Eugene Levin. The final score was $4\frac{1}{2}$ - $3\frac{1}{2}$.
